General Comment

allowing the absorbtion of all copywritten content into AI is a threat not just to artists and writers, but newspapers, magazines, podcasters, music, and more. The major export of the United States is its culture, bringing in billions of dollars into the country and allowing major corportations to grow tremendously. Rupert Murdoch would have no fortune if his business had no copyright protection. Joe Rogan is vulnerable to this exploitation as his influence withers if he's duplicated a thousand times by people with goals to the left of his. Creative fields would grind to a halt while those overseas overwhelm our influence by having no such sea of duplicates and phonies to overcome. And President Trump would have no legal recourae to keep people from using his brand in an unauthorized way. This is a Trojan Horse of illegality and does not Make America Great. Stop this steal!
