General Comment

As a musician, author, and creative artist, I have already seen the rapid debasement and devaluation of the creative arts, and the associated destruction of revenue, that AI has wrought. The Artificial Intelligence "industry", such as it is, is based entirely on boosterism, hallucinatory valuations, and the utter theft of all content, everywhere, from private photos, emails and social media posts to the "consumption" and regurgitation of the world's great art. If the venture capital cronies wish their unwanted, unnecessary, dubiously functional AI behemoth to use our work, let them pay fair market value like every other legal user does. If they're unwilling to do that, yet still take our work, they're common thieves. Please stand with creative artists and everyday citizens alike and protect our works from this amoral, inhuman exploitation. Thank you.
