General Comment

Generative AI is a wasteful and pointless technology with no proven use case. It is a glorified chatbot that makes use of excessive amounts of energy, water, and other resources to the end of creating error prone statements, poorly composed images, and violations of individuals rights. That it demands the law change to make the way it builds this engine of waste is absurd, if it cannot exist without stealing then it should not exist, and instead declaring that its blatant infringement of copyright is an exception is similarly absurd and disgusting.
