General Comment

Destroying copyright would not only rob average people and professional artists of their own copyrights, but would destroy the copyright of corporations the seek to profit from this very thing. Any short term gains would be wiped out from the destruction of the various industries that rely on creative work and workers that would be effected by being replaced by AI. Our economy, already in downturn, would plummet further from these losses. There is no amount of stolen data that will make AI into the promised product these snake oil salesmen are selling.

Defend us! Defend our ability to make art and own it, whether we're an individual or corporation. Do not let these companies steal from us what we have made!
