General Comment

Continuing to chase and acquiesce to AI companies' flagrant disregard for copyright and basic respect for humans will only further damage this country's national security, efficacy, and cultural baseline for almost zero positive results. AI holds a negative place in the future of the United States, and should not be allowed to continue unabated.

AI companies literally profit off the theft of the creative output of the American people, and their continual, exponential need for material and energy will cripple this nation. Their grift should not be the priority of the United States.
