General Comment

It is critical to protect the private intellectual property of our great American authors and other creators from the communist appropriation of their work by greedy AI organizations. America has long prided itself on the strong incentives it provides to individual American artists and creators through a powerful copyright system. Through these strong protections American authors know that they maintain their God-given rights to earn an income from their hard work and prevent anyone from taking the fruits of their labor from them. Removing the protections upon the works of Americans in order to satisfy the greed of AI megacorporations would represent a massive loss in the greatness of America by destroying all incentive Americans have to create. Do not listen to the fear mongering of proponents of AI: they do not have American interests at heart and seek to push their own leftist and communist agenda by destroying individuality and free human expression by collectivizing all creative works and using them to build tools to create a regime of censorship. Say NO to greedy AI, PROTECT AMERICAN COPYRIGHT and keep what makes America great in America!
