General Comment

I am an American artist, both by trade and as a hobbyist. I have spent years of my life building the skill necessary for my work. I am strongly opposed to giving generative AI companies free reign to take whatever art they want, regardless of ownership, copyright or consent.

What these people are asking for is to essentially be allowed to commit widespread theft of intellectual property, for free, without permission or consequence, to profit off their ill gotten gains, and for this widespread theft to be protected by law.

Regardless of what the intention of use is, AI tech companies should not be allowed to profit off of the stolen work of millions of artists. This will take away countless jobs from those in the creative field and destroy the concept of copyrights and ownership.
