

From: Andrew Gilmore
To: ostp-ai-rfi
Subject: [External] Dont remove barriers to AI
Date: Sunday, March 16, 2025 9:02:29 AM

CAUTION: This email originated from outside your organization. Exercise caution when opening attachments or clicking links, especially from unknown senders.

I remember a time when you all gave companies copyright and intellectual property rights but now when some tech bros want to steal from independent artists and people who actually put thought and life experiences in their work now all of a sudden because they dont have billions its ok to rob them of the same protections so you can get script kiddies to pretend they are artists or automate someone's job away when they need that money? Sounds hypocritical dont it? The US supreme court has ruled that only human created works can receive IP and copyright protections so if i were less scrupulous, like you folks, i could take anything you create with AI and fix it to look like an actual human with a brain created it and claim it as my own. You guys really want that?

Secondly AI is extremely error prone, tends to forget more things than someone with memory issues, and completely lacks experience to automate complex tasks. This is why Israel's drone program is such a blood bath creating powerhouse, United Health's policy denied so many valid claims, etc. "AI" cannot comprehend nuance like someone with experience can. Just stop chasing this bubble to our detriment.

Andrew Gilmore
