

From: Ann Koi
To: ostp-ai-rfi
Subject: [External] What sort of cheap, inhumane nonsense is this?
Date: Sunday, March 16, 2025 2:35:43 AM

CAUTION: This email originated from outside your organization. Exercise caution when opening attachments or clicking links, especially from unknown senders.

Human beings can make - and do, and always will - make new and innovative art and solve creative problems. Generative AI is not only unnecessary, but a detriment to progress, innovation, aesthetics, AND allowing Gen AI engines to steal freely from existing art - currently covered by various national and international copyright laws - is at best a cheap-ass, underhanded move to get out of paying the people who originally developed styles/character/worlds/techniques.

Can you really, with enthusiasm, say Yes! to highway robbery - nay, sanctioned plagiarism - especially when it can only dry up innovation and "create" blenderized copies of copies. A pox on your faux innovation.

sincerely,
A.S. Koi
concept & production artist for film, stage, and graphic media
