Out-of-ideas developers created this very expensive, ineffective "solution," now they need to invent a problem for it to solve. AI is notoriously inaccurate, horrifyingly inefficient, and largely useless. I'm also unhappy with doge's obvious conflicts of interest in data mining every person's private info and millions of civil servants' emails to train a private market AI system. This is a gross misuse of taxpayer dollars to fill the already overfill pockets of billionaires at the expense of the American economy.
