I believe AI should be regulated for security reasons. The Federal government or its staff should not have any personal or corporate investments in private sector AI, nor should such government connected individuals or corporations receive any government funding or grants for private sector AI initiatives or own any AI related stocks. There is too much conflict of interest when the Federal government becomes involved in private sector initiatives generating money for their own personal gain. AI will become a slush fund for politicians, merely throwing crumbs at their constituents as a smoke screen. The Federal government should limit AI initiatives only to funding for individual and broader level threats AI can produce against ordinary members of the public.
