Hello. I do not believe AI has a place in our future. You see, AI does not create things on its own, it just grabs things from other people that are relevant and puts it out in a new format without credit. If a human did this, it would be called plagiarism. Why would we allow something that steals from the people whom it serves? If a human were doing this, action would be taken against them. Yet instead we know what AI does and are removing the guardrails so it can steal freely and without consequence. All I ask is that we keep the copyrights in place so that way AI can not steal from the people for free. Thank you for your time.
