AI, in it's current state, does not deserve the funding nor attention it is receiving. Especially when it's raking in millions from theft & replacing the people AI is supposed to be helping.

To be precise, OpenAI and Google train their models - ChatGPT & Gemini, respectively - on large collection of data. That data includes your IP address, location, phone calls and other usage data, alongside any files you think of; all of which without consent.

With these bottomless wells of data, Gemini and ChatGPT can produce deceptive images, text, audio and video. In other words, it can flood the Internet with false information, imitation of other people & other "deepfakes", while the developer of the AI model sell our data to other companies.

Thus, the Development of an Artificial Intelligence (AI) Action Plan should not be implemented until OpenAI finds a more ethical way to power their AI models.
