Faisal D'Souza and NITRD staff,

As a tech worker I am writing to make public my deep disapproval of the recent RFI "AI Action Plan" submitted per Executive Order.

This proposal promotes the intellectual theft of pre-existing works to further train AI models and deepens a dangerous precedent. The RFI claims that this theft is justified to "enhance America's AI dominance," ostensibly against China - but we have already lost the race if we are stealing rather than innovating, eschewing critical regulations, and giving private industry carte blanche to develop economy-upending, deeply flawed technologies without any accountability to the American people.

I condemn this proposal as it is currently written and urge you to reject it until and unless it can be refined to demand respect for intellectual property law and protection for consumers.

Thank you,
Christeene Alcosiba
