At this time it is a waste of Federal funds to develop an AI action plan and I would prefer details on why “dominance” is needed in this endeavor if all current Open AI is public and not federally regulated. What concerns me is the motivation or reason behind this comment made in a recent White House article. “ The AI Action Plan will define priority policy actions to enhance America’s position as an AI powerhouse and prevent unnecessarily burdensome requirements from hindering private sector innovation. With the right governmental policies, continued U.S. AI leadership will promote human flourishing, economic competitiveness, and national security.” I believe those so called burdensome requirements will better -protect United States citizens and businesses not hinder the development of AI. I would like more information on who would benefit the most from this action plan.
