Hello. My name is Devin Marshall, and I strongly disagree with this plan and urge you to reconsider.

AI is a dangerous path that promises us the world on a silver platter, but is actually going to lead to the downfall of our country. It steals from the labor of artists and artisans, repurposes with no empathy or consideration, and gives incorrect information that people absorb as law.

The more that we rely on such empty promises, the more we leave ourselves vulnerable to manipulation and misinformation, and also lose out on the work of the creative minds that make our country so great and provide so much of the work that AI steals from.

I urge you to instead work on robust copyright laws with regard to AI use, so that we may remain protected in terms of our intellectual property, labor, and ideas. Only then should we feel secure in relying so much on artificial intelligence instead of biological intelligence.
