

3/8/2025 via FDMS

Gerald Jenkins, Jr.

Americans have concerns that the entities involved in AI development have no guiderails to follow. AI has the ability to be a boon to Mankind, or it' worst enemy. I encourage our leaders to keep the tech side on a well defined path that will make AI a source for good. I also encourage all models to be available to every American without charge. AI should not only be available to people who have financial resources but to every American.