Elon Musk has consistently given his estimate of the chances that unregulated AI that is smarter than all of humanity combined will literally exterminate life on earth as 20%. A wide array of experts give similar probabilities, going all the way up to 99%. I urge Donald Trump to become the most important leader in world history by addressing the most serious threat our species has ever faced, as only someone with his boldness and decisiveness could. China should be contacted with a proposition to mutually slow progress on frontier AI systems. With their disadvantage, they will be motivated to accept. Progress should be halted or slowed until Musk is ready with his Neuralink to control strong AI, or at least until more work on safety can be done. This will also mitigate the serious risks of catastrophic widespread job loss. This matter is of the absolute utmost importance.
