As someone who is an artist I believe that you are giving ai too much control on the creative and academic field all for the sake of cheap profits. How dare you stifle the voice of the people with a cheap machine imitation. Ai could have truly been a way to improve the life of the average citizen but it is obvious that corporations would rather use these machines as a quick and cheap replacement of human work. I rather be educated and inspired by humans rather than a preprogrammed machine that doesn't even understand what text looks like. Artificial intelligence is meant to be our partner not our replacement.
