

2/28/2025 via FDMS

Iris Cripe-Eng

I am not as versed on this subject matter as many others are. However, I am concerned. My understanding is that one of the creators of AI walked away from it entirely. The Center for AI Safety has many signatures of people "in the know" regarding AI. America I already has nuclear bombs. Other countries also have nuclear weapons. AI Safety site online has many signatures of notable public figures who warn us that we should mitigate the risk of extinction through AI as well as other global problems that could destroy and in fact has destroyed life in the past such as pandemics and nuclear. In addition to the dangers that AI could cause, AI also puts many creative people out of work. What jobs would be provided for artists, writers and such? I truly wonder if this is a good idea. We can kill each other through epidemiology attacks; nuclear attacks and others. Do we really want to move forward with AI when so many noted individuals are concerned about this? Thank you, Iris M. Cripe-Eng