AI regulations are NECESSARY for the safety of the public. Businesses seek to replace as many living breathing people as they can get away with. This means less jobs for Americans. All while the working class is being pushed to the limit by stagnant wages and other avenues of automation. AI as a tool is going to be used to flood the internet with misinformation and propaganda worse than it already is. The output of such technologies looks cheap, copied, and often garbage. Even with improvements I believe it is unethical to utilize. There needs to be protections for real people in place. Generative text and images are also making its users lazier with their work. The less effort a real person puts into a piece of work, the less they'll improve at such work. Data harvesting to feed AI is also a threat to data privacy of US citizens. We should disincentivize corporations from illegally selling our data with potential jail time. If you believe we need to invest in this technology in order to be competitive with the other superpowers of the world, then you are already a step behind. We first need to invest in our people. AI won't fix our crumbling infrastructure. AI won't provide universal health care. AI won't prevent disasters caused by climate change, but it will accelerate them. Why develop AI as a weapon when we should be developing defenses against it instead? I firmly believe that heavy regulation of AI would be for the better of my country. It's infecting too many parts of society and causing distrust and instability. The private sector holds no loyalty to this country. Giving them free reign to do what they will with no consequences will assuredly lead to a darker future for me and my people. Please heed my words and RESTRICT corporations from abusing AI to their own ends.
