

2/18/2025 via FDMS

Matthew Kilbane

Data Literacy is the corner stone of any type of AI adoption as it provides the foundational skills and understanding necessary for individuals and organizations to effectively leverage AI. By proliferating data literacy to the Nations students through the Dept. of Education via grants, the United States can begin building the data literate population for tomorrow. As long as we have a solid knowledge foundation among the general population, we can build anything we can imagine.