

2/25/2025 via FDMS

Nathanial Parker

Artificial Intelligence (AI) has the ability to revolutionize society in the following years. Here are the areas that this administration should focus on concerning AI: -Ensure that both smaller and larger AI firms have an equal playing field to advance AI. It should not be solely limited to "big tech." -Ensure that user privacy is at the forefront of AI. Examining both local-processing and cloud-hosted AI solutions are key on this. -Ensure that information distributed by AI is accurate and as neutral and free of bias as possible, ensuring that the public has the ability to know what information is being promoted and demoted over AI. -Ensure that AI is being used for ethical purposes and used to supplement, not replace human intelligence. -Ensure that as much of AI can be "American Intelligence", with servers hosted in the USA, programmers residing in the USA, and that AI investments are made in America first. -AI and DOGE can work together to find ways to utilize AI to make the government run more efficiently.