The AI action plan will not benefit the united states, if it is allowed that open ai have access to copyrighted items without fear of lawsuits, it will not benefit the common man, it will not benefit the middle man, it will not benefit anybody besides the few corporate executives that will proceed to profit majorly off of the added contents, it will not improve the ai in a way that is tangible or feasible, and it isn't a bridge into the future. All it is is allowing one company to steal and commit fraud on thousands of works without concern, and if the government has any interest in not being a slave to corporate greed, it will work against this plan.
