My name is Ryan Leong and I do not believe AI holds a place in the future of the US as AI steals from my livelihood as an American and profits off of theft. AI is not only overhyped, but is also incredibly expensive to maintain, a huge waste of resources, for such little profit and little use cases. What is the point of copyright if media is not protected from AI? If generative AI is going to train on copyright material, then the people of the copyright material must be properly compensated.
