Howdy,

I think giving AI developers carte blanche to utilize the works of studios, individuals, writers, artists, and other creators, by disregarding their copyrights that protect their intellectual property, is an egregious affront against their livelihoods. Please do what you can to ensure AI developers are held accountable for generating derivative material off of copyrighted works. The culture of the United States is made all the richer by our artists and writers, our musicians and animators, our photographers and videographers. Please protect and prioritize the livelihoods of the human Americans doing the hard work to enrich our nation.

Thank you,
Thomas Schiffer
