I do not believe generative AI has any place in the future of the US. So far, generative AI has been almost entirely used to steal the efforts of hard-working Americans to produce far inferior products at steep energy costs. It does not improve upon the work it stole from, it distorts and diminishes it at cost to the original artist and the thief. This is not just about creative works such as digital art or written works of fiction, but also of functional or informational data such as news articles, textbooks, and source code.

I believe there is a way that Generative AI can be used constructively, but, as it is currently implemented, Generative AI is only harming American citizens, stealing from the many for the profit of the few and flooding the internet with the incorrect data of a machine's misunderstandings, all for a technology that most Americans, if not most people all over the world, do not see as beneficial. Please do not give this dangerous technology free reign to be abused, do not allow the rampant theft from the American people to continue.
