Nobody is buying the AI Bulls^&*. Nobody wants to see their labor, their copyrights, their IPs taken and exploited by hacks who don't want to pay the creative labor force. The only ones who want this are those trying desperately to recoup their millions of gambled money just like nfts. If your businesses can't grow without exploitative, rampant disregard of trade laws it deserves to lose money and shutdown. And I have no faith in the current president with a lifetime record of failed businesses and a reputation of stiffing his employers and contractors being an obvious puppet lackey to the civilian billionaire who bought his way into the white house. That speaks volumes about their character and businesnuts.
